S. A. Hopefuls

by Dave Crowley

With S.A. elections less than a week away, junior John Belcher is busily stumping the campus for votes needed to be elected to the Student Association Presidency.

The candidate is in agreement with the newly proposed constitution for the SMC Student Association. Belcher, currently the President of Delta House is particularly "pleased with the house revisions and also the process of reviewing the members of the executive board."

With much debate on whether or not the Student Senate is primarily a social or legislative organization, John Belcher contends that "the purpose of the Senate should be to organize the social events of the college but in order to do that, the senate must be run in an efficient legislative manner."

On the subject of Senate appropriations, the Delta House President declined comment on the methods that have been employed by the Senate in allocating funds to the various student organizations.

Noting that, "the only way you can accomplish anything" is to have "a closer relationship between the student body and the administration," Belcher hopes to strengthen the ties between the two forces if elected. He feels "that a well run and informative Student Senate might help to remedy . . . the apathy on campus," which he cites as the main problem facing SMC students. He hopes that the new Senate constitution will activate interest among the students and thus alleviate the problem of apathy.

Much like the campaign for S.A. president, there are also two candidates competing for the post of vice president.

Sam Iorio

John Belcher

Tim Murray

Sophomore Tim Murray is currently on the Senate and served as a member of the "Capasso Commission" which drafted the new Senate constitution. He is strongly in favor of the new guidelines, and views the role of the Senate as both a social and legislative body. He would like to see a tighter screening of where the funds that are appropriated go, and proposes that the Senate act "as a watchdog on how the money is being spent." Murray feels that, at present, the relationship between students and faculty could stand for some improving and, as vice president, he will be in charge of the various Senate committees and thus plans to use his office to improve relations between the two groups.

Also running for vice president is Sam Iorio, a junior, who likewise served on the "Capasso Commission." He is "very pleased with the end result." Iorio holds that the Senate is both a social and legislative body, and he is very much in favor of the methods employed by the Senate in distributing funds. Finally, as vice president, Iorio would like to tap a number of resources, such as the student body, which he feels "went untouched this year . . . I don't want to see that happen again."

Remember, the Senate will only be as good as the members on it, so vote May 1st for next years officers.

THE CAMPUS RADIO STATION: A PROGRESS REPORT

by Dave Crowley

The long awaited premier of the campus radio station (the call letters WSSE have not yet been approved) may soon be at hand. Though the remaining equipment is still coming in "drips and drabs," John O'Neil, a member of the station's executive board stated this week that the station might be broadcasting by this time next month. He wished to emphasize however, that nothing is definite and there still may be some minor delays.

Construction on the station's air conditioned facilities at the Sloane Art Center is proceeding on schedule. Work is being done under the direction of Mr. Warren Chase, chief engineer for radio station WVNY-FM.

Operating on a frequency of 88.7 FM, the SMC station will be utilizing the most modern up-to-date broadcasting equipment. Programming will consist primarily of music, but there will be a smattering of local news, community bulletin board, public service announcements, and ski reports.

Calling the station basically "underground rock," board member O'Neil stated that the music will follow the lines of classical, jazz, blues and rock. Daytime programming will consist more or less of a "progressive top forty" type format, much like CHOM-FM in Montreal. Night time music will be underground rock. According to John, he hopes to "toy with peoples minds." Classical music will be of an "avant-garde" type — "nothing heavy," it will deal with such artists as Bach and Emerson, Lake and Palmer.

Comparing the station to the University of Vermont's WRUV-FM, John feels that the SMC station will be much better. If all goes right, the future WSSE will have better equipment, more power, better geographical location and a "far superior" record library. Already, the St. Michael's station has made it on to the Warner Brothers Reprise record list, an exclusive list which the University station has been unable to secure a position.

With the broadcasting radius of 15-20 miles — more with weather permitting, the station is staffed by approximately twenty volunteers — newcomers are always welcome. Most have their broadcasting license and are now being trained for the air work. The station will be operating throughout the summer by a rotating staff. Operating times are still to be worked out. Come next year there are hopes that the station may operate on a twenty four hour basis if enough qualified students are found to man the microphones.

Mini - Concert For Winds

by Corey Fogg

Thursday evening at 7:30 this campus will have the privilege of seeing a Mini-Concert for Winds presented by the St. Michael's College Wind Ensemble. This will take place at St. Michael's the Archangel Chapel.

The ensemble stands at 17 and includes:

Flute — Vickie Desautels and Donna Trevlin.

Oboe — Anthony Signorelli.

Clarinet — Pete Palermo, Frank Napolitana, Steve Houle, Pete Keefe and Suzanne Peters.

Bass Clarinet — John Miller.

Saxophone — Mark Drabinski.

Trumpet — Larry Strickland, Tom LaChance, Don Solimini.

Trombone — Clay Hughes.

Saxophone — Bob Harriss,

Bruce Barrows.

The Mini-Concert will be conducted by Dr. Paul LeClair, the group's director. Dr. LeClair has led the Wind Ensemble since its inception three years ago. The program will generally consist of Baroque pieces for Ensemble and include the following:

Cantate Domino, Pitoni; Hymn to Diana, Gluck; Two Airs, Corelli; Fugue in A Flat, J.S. Bach; Trumpet Tune, Purcell; Royal Fireworks Music Overture, Handel; Elizabethan Motet, Byrd; Sarabande and Menuetto, Handel.

This Mini-Concert will be presented free of charge and all will be welcomed and treated to a fine show.

EDITORIAL

The editors and staff of The Michaelman extend their deepest sympathies to Dr. Henry G. Fairbanks, whose wife Katherine died unexpectedly Tuesday morning.

Truly a remarkable woman, she will always be remembered by all those who knew her.

"grateful for life, expectant of more together."

It's that time of the year again: posters are being hung, sheets are flapping in the breeze, and people are running around trying to find out exactly who their real friends are. Student Association elections are to be held Tuesday May 1. There is only one candidate running for the prestigious title of President.

This is fantastic! All year long, people complain about the faults of the college, "There isn't anything to do!" or "Why doesn't the senate do something for me?" Now that the opportunity to do something that could help student life presents itself, now that there is an opportunity to sit in a position of importance, now that the opportunity for someone to move into a position that has the potential of being very influential in shaping college policy presents itself, there is only one response.

John Belcher, President of Delta House, is the person who answered the call. Although at this point it is too early to decide the election (there is always the possibility of a write-in campaign), John has shown a degree of responsibility that is needed in a S.A. President. The fact that he is seeking the job shows some degree of responsibility, and indeed, it is responsibility that is the mark of a good leader. What other qualities are needed in order to be worthy of the title "President" charm, quick wit, a pleasant smile, charisma? What about a desire to work, intelligence, a sense of diplomacy, the ability to be a leader?

It is the hope that between now and Tuesday at least one more person will apply for the office of S.A. President. Campus politics may be "petty" etc, but they are not a farce.

WDM

There has been much confusion over the question of certification for the Education Department. One group of people claims one thing, another group claims something else entirely. In an attempt to find out exactly what the policy towards certification was going to be, reporters from The Michaelman went to see Dean Pfeifer in order to get right to the heart of the matter. On at least two of those visits to the Dean, the question was left unanswered, because the problem was still being investigated.

It has now been more than three weeks since the first of those visits. The Michaelman, as well as the rest of the student body are still waiting for an answer to the certification problem. Dr. Pfeifer, where does the school stand on the question? What is the fate of the Education Department going to be? When, if ever, is the college going to solve this dilemma that it is faced with? It is the opinion of this paper that the students have a right to know, and that the college is obligated to inform the students of their decision. How much longer must we wait before the air will finally be cleared? There are now three more weeks left before the semester ends. Hopefully, within those next three weeks, we will all know just exactly where we stand.

SUMMER SESSION

Any student who wishes to take a course during the summer at another college must have written prior permission in order to have credits transferred.

Permission may be obtained from either Dr. Pfeifer or Miss McNamara, J 27, by presenting catalog description of course you wish to take at that particular school. Credits are transferred for courses with grades of C or better. Questions will be gladly answered by Miss McNamara at any time.

Law School Info

by Keith MacDonald

Recently Mrs. Nancy H. Ely, Assistant Dean for Admissions at the Boston University School of Law, spoke here on law schools under the auspices of the Political Science Club.

Mrs. Ely began by saying that competition is very stiff for getting into law schools due to the dramatic increase in applications that law schools have experienced in the last couple of years. She made the following suggestions concerning applying to law schools:

Consider Taking a Year Off following graduation. Law school costs $5,000 to $6,000 and you would only be putting yourself into needless debt if you entered law school and then found you did not like it. By taking a year off, you might possibly get a job with a law firm and so would be able to decide if the legal profession is suitable for you.

The Best Time To Take L.S.A.T.'s is probably in the summer before your senior year. You don't have academic pressures on you and you're more relaxed. Also, during the summer you'll have more time to prepare for the L.S.A.T.'s. Don't study material from past courses but do go over copies of the tests so that you are familiar with the format. Mrs. Ely said that it doesn't help to take the L.S.A.T.'s more than once since most law schools use the first score reported to them. And the schools that do consider more than one score averages the scores so that if you did worse on subsequent tests your score would actually be lower. But even if you did better on the second test, law schools usually subtract a certain amount from it since it is assumed that taking the L.S.A.T.'s the second time will automatically result in a higher grade and so the increase in score may be cancelled out by the adjustment made by the admissions office.

Apply To Schools you think you have at least a chance of getting into. Be realistic about your abilities. Apply to several schools, perhaps one or two "dream" schools — schools you'd like to attend but aren't too sure of getting into — and then apply to schools you're fairly certain are within your reach. Consider law schools in the South, Midwest, and West since there aren't as many applicants for each opening in these regions. (In the East the ratio is as bad as 10 applicants per opening while in the other regions it is a more hopeful 4 or 5).

Keep Your Applications Updated. Don't trust the school to send your transcript automatically. Check up on the registrar's office. And yourselves, send to the law schools any new information you may think they should know such as awards, job experiences, etc. "Now is the time to brag about yourselves," is the way Mrs. Ely described applying to law schools. It helps to get recommendations from people for whom you have worked but general letters of recommendation (such as letters from mayors, other politicians, well-known businessmen) are not useful although they might seem impressive; Mrs. Ely stressed that influence does not get you into law school: it's what you know, not whom you know.

LETTERS

Sir:

With elections for class officers a few days away, we are once again faced with the task of selecting those who will lead and represent us next year. Unfortunately, many people often vote for a name (or don't vote at all) without being aware of the qualifications of the candidates. We the undersigned feel that it is our duty to inform the general public of the qualifications of William Langlands for the office of senior class president, which he is seeking. We have seen Bill display leadership qualities, diplomacy, and good common sense in the numerous activities in which he has been involved in the last 3 years here at SMC. As freshman class V.P., as a member of the varsity soccer team, as a member of Crown and Sword and as an R.A., Bill has proved that he can get the job done. The choice is yours, but we ask that before you vote — consider Bill Langlands.

Sir:

You probably realize by now that there is only one candidate for Student Association President at St. Michael's College. Unless this one candidate is challenged by a write-in between now and election night, he will fall into the position regardless of the desires of the student body one way or the other. This is bad politics and a threat to representative government on this campus. It could instill a crippling distrust and cynicism in the Senate.

It is for these reasons that we ask Keith MacDonald to run as a write-in candidate for S.A. President. But more importantly, we ask him to run because we have faith that if he is successful, the whole St. Michael's community will benefit.

Before he makes his decision we ask him to think for a moment of his responsibility as a capable and involved student, to serve when his service is desperately needed. We hope he will agree that it is a necessity and obligation of all able and dedicated individuals to pursue public office.

Sincerely,

Dan Gaherty

Wednesday night, May 2, at 6:15 in the Senate room of the Klein Student Center, the changing of administrations will take place. Hear farewell speeches by such notables as Dandy Don Kavaunaugh, Frank (Rock of Ages) Newton, and Jeannie "Call to Order" Citeralla! Thrill to the addresses made by the honorable T. Guy "More the question" Minetti, not to mention the remarks that everyone is waiting to hear, delivered by John "Diogenes" Angus!

All in all, a good time should be had by all those attending. Admission is free, and guarantee, NO entertainment tax! Be there! It should be interesting!

Senior Prez

Candidates

The former V.P. of the Class of 1974 is now seeking the Office of President of the Class. Bill Langlands, an old hand at campus politics, feels that he is qualified enough to take over the helm of the class. Bill wants to raise more money so that the class can be brought closer together through more activities; possibilities at this point call for a concert at some point during the year.

Bringing the class together seems to be one of the main points of those that are running for the President of the Class of 1974, and Bill's no exception. His experience as a V.P. is bound to help out, although he may be a bit rusty, as he has been out of the office for two years. "Happy campaigning Bill."

"To make this the best class to graduate from St. Mike's in a long time." That's the slogan that Tod O'Connor, a newcomer to St. Michael's politics, is basing his campaign on. I asked Tod what he plans to do for the class, and he replied that he wants to continue the efforts of this year's class president, to make each member aware of the potential in the class, and to organize the members of the class to a greater extent than they have ever been before.

Tod's plea for a "Unified Class" is one that has been heard many times before. Tod is convinced that he can pull the class together, but he hasn't revealed his plan for doing so as of this printing date. Tod has stated, however, that he hopes for greater involvement among the class members. "Good luck to you, Tod."

Tennis Profiles

by Blob & Stolic

Andy Michaud — Senior, who is completing his four year tennis career for the Knights, has a good tennis background to help out the Saints. He played three years at Saint Dominic Regional High School in Lewiston, Maine, as well as having played three years at the hilltop. Andy is looking forward to a good season. He hoped to make the Miketown record a better than winning season.

Don Mascola — Senior Dom has played tennis for nine years. His experience includes four years at Red Bank High School, Red Bank, N.J. and four years of varsity experience here at St. Mikes. He has also taught tennis lessons for two years at a New Jersey camping resort.

Dick Sullivan — Senior — Dick has been captain of the St. Michael's Varsity team for the past four years. Other tennis experience includes four years in high school and various play in some sanctioned USLTA matches around New England. Needless to say, Dick has been around the rackets for a long time.

Oliver Riley — Sophomore — Oliver's tennis experience consists of four years of varsity tennis at Catholic Central High School in Binghamton, N.Y. Oliver has the distinction of being the only freshman on last year's team.

Mike Williams — Freshman — Mike played four years of varsity tennis at Cathedral High School in Springfield, Mass. He was co-captain in his senior year.

Stephen Downes — Freshman — Steve has played three years of varsity tennis at Cheshire High School, Cheshire, Conn. He has also played in the Conn. state doubles tournament.

John Piekarski — Senior — John has three years of varsity tennis experience here at the hilltop. He figures to be one of the prime factors in St. Michael's quest for a winning season.

Kevin Keegan — Freshman — Kevin played three years of varsity tennis for his high school team. His team placed second in the New York Metropolitan Catholic High School league in his senior year.

Terry Burjai — Junior — Terry has been manager of the St. Michael's team for the past two years. His dedication and confidence in the team have been prime factors in all the team's successes.

CONFLICTS MUST BE REPORTED NO LATER THAN NOON, FRIDAY, APRIL 13

What? Me Worry?

Alfred E's, that growing campus conglomerate, has felt the effects of the spring crime wave on campus.

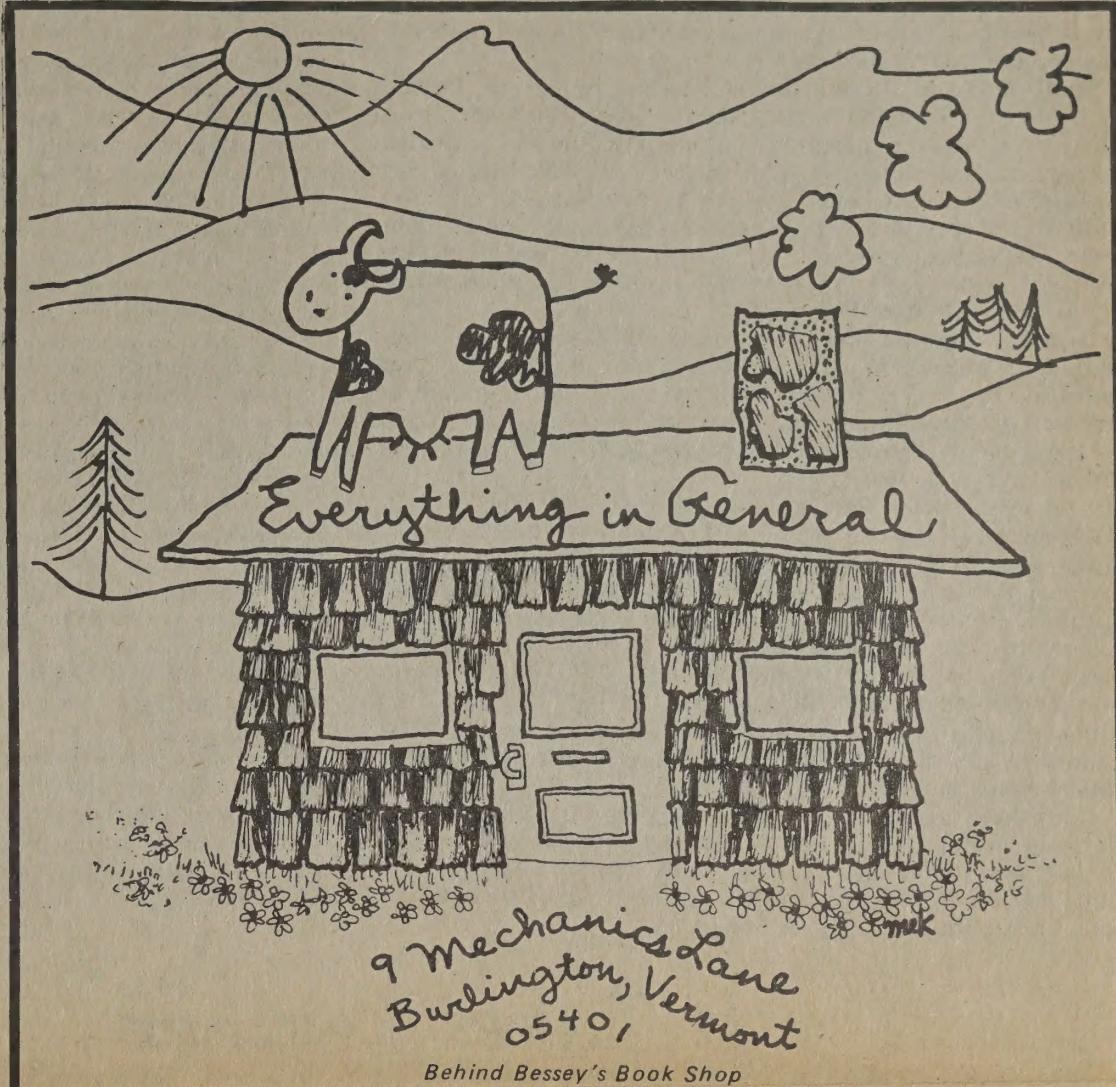

Upon his return from an invigorating vacation, Alfred discovered that his wallet had been rifled, and a number of Negotiable Federal Reserve Notes were missing. The rest of his estate was as shabby-looking as usual.

The Security Police are currently running down a number of suspects and predict that they will break the case by the time of the Alfred E. Company Picnic, which is scheduled for this May.

Alfred E. comments that "There will be business as usual up until May 13, and this powerful conglomerate will absorb the loss."

What else can I say but congratulations to a fine Delta House poly-hockey team after their championship victory over powerful Psi House. The game was deadlocked at 1-1 for 7 overtimes before John Belcher's goal turned the trick for Delta. A "packed house" witnessed this exciting event, and surely all will agree both teams deserve much credit for splendid performances. Again I say, congratulations for a well deserved victory and wait 'til next year "Lav"!

SMC students should definitely take notice of Darren Schneek's efforts with the club Lacrosse team. With little or no help, he managed to produce a 9 game schedule and pull out a victory over a veteran Norwich squad in their first organized season. With a team that is fairly new and with virtually one man running the show, they certainly deserve a great deal more credit than they've been given. If they were financially backed by our Athletic Department I'm sure the team's success could be multiplied tenfold in the future.

St. Mike's Rugby Club went down in defeat again last week but their efforts were not all in vain. Yes, sports fans, for the second week in a row they've managed to keep injuries to a minimum at the post game Rugby parties. If possible, one should witness one of these events. People say there may be just as appealing as the actual rugby matches.

The varsity baseball team dropped their 1973 debut to St. Lawrence U. this past Wednesday by a score of 7-0. Untimely errors and few hits were the story of the day. Bob Nugent pitched a fine game but lost with only 1 earned run. Yours truly, a reserve outfielder, rode the pines for the duration of the Knights opener.

Since my first column in last week's issue, I have received various opinions both good and bad, on the title I have chosen. The truth of the matter is I selected this only for the lack of anything better to call it. I will happily accept any suggestions students may have. Just drop a letter (signed!) into the Michaelman office.

This week's "Jock of the Week" award goes out to junior outfielder John Russell, after ripping the longest foul ball of the day before being called out on strikes. The blast came in the ninth inning of the SMC — St. Lawrence game on Wednesday. It was a tough break for this rugged competitor.

It Takes Leather . . .

Rugby, a game created in England, has proven to be one of the major sports in the eastern collegiate life style. Bill Dwyer attempted to create a Rugby Club last year, and it proved to be semi-successful. This year, Rugby took a giant step forward and established itself as a new means of physical punishment for the students at SMC.

There were some 60 students, eager to play rugby at the start of the spring semester. After three weeks of practice, about 50 students were left. The loss of 10 students was not due to a loss of interest but rather due to injuries. Dennis Greenwood credits himself as the first major injury of the 1973 season. Mark Barley made a valiant attempt to take this title away from Dennis, but fell a week short.

The rugby team is surrounded by such notables as Wrongway Cronan, "once-a-week Woods," "Ta Ta Ta Tod," and Joe "Fatman" Acruni.

This weekend the rugby team will travel to Colgate University to play in a round robin tournament. St. Mike's will be playing the University of Penn., Union College, Boston College and Colgate. The scoring power of the

A team revolves around the back field of Bob "Muggsie" McGraw, Peter Glennon, Bill Griffin, John "Rookie" Condon, and Greg Stevens. With a great deal of help from scrummers Brian Timmons, Ed Antos, Doug "Chicago" Rhoten, and Chip "Ocean" DeYoe.

With a great deal of prayers and luck, we hope to bring back a few victories.

Delta Wins Poly-Hockey

by John Belcher

Before a capacity crowd at the North Campus gym at the Delta poly-hockey team defeated a favored team 2-1 in the 7th overtime period. The first score of the game came midway through the first period when Rocket Fulchino slipped one by the Psi goalie Marty Conroy. The game went scoreless the rest of the way until midway in the third period after a real hustle by Tommy "Hat trick" Hogan set up the only Psi goal that trickled into the net. The rest of the period remained scoreless and sent it into overtime. The seven overtimes showed why Delta and Psi were in the championship game. Both teams played superb defense and both goalies were spectacular. Going into the final overtime both teams were physically exhausted. With eight minutes remaining, a digging George Cater passed the puck to Tim Thaler who shoved it out front to John Belcher who arched a backhander by Conroy for the game winner.

Fine efforts were shown by all especially Conroy and Delta goalie Charlie O'Connor both of whom were under extreme pressure throughout the 3 hour long marathon.

SMC Hoop Hopefuls

Chris Gregory is 5-11, 160 pounds and a guard who averaged 22 points a game for Msgr. Scanlan High School in New York City. Chris was voted to the New York Daily News Private School All-Star Team. He is an excellent ball-handler and shooter and would definitely be a welcome prospect to the Purple Knights back court. His single game high was 39 points against rival New York City power Rice High. Chris is very much interested in St. Michael's and his chances are good that he will enroll at SMC in the fall.

Gerry Trapp is 6-5 and is a senior at All Hallows High School in metropolitan New York. Gerry, who was also voted to the New York Daily News All-Star Team, averaged 23 points a game this year. He is tall, quick and very talented. He scored 30 points or more four times this past season for All Hallows and was captain of the team. His season high was 37 points against Tolentine.

Gerry would be ideal for the Purple Knights have for their future varsity basketball program. He is one of the big men we need and could help the Knights to return to Evansville. Trapp is being recruited by many basketball school powerhouses. Let's hope St. Mike's is his choice.

Lacross Returns

by "C"

In the spring of 1972 St. Michael's was treated to the rebirth of a lacross club delivered solely by the efforts of an elite group of students who played for some hidden and as yet undiscovered purpose.

The club last year consisted of a closely knit group of freshmen and shophomore who overcame the barriers of finance and administration to field a team of inexperienced unconditioned individuals who managed to make a showing far beyond the expectations of both player and spectator.

This year an entirely new venture into the lacrosse world was launched with the advent of finances and renewed enthusiasm among the original corps and a promising crop of experienced recruits. Hailing basically from the greater New York City and Connecticut areas the players began a program of training and conditioning unprecedented in its scope and intensity, and began what has evolved into a determined and talented group of lacrosse players.

The individual who can claim the greater part of responsibility for the success achieved by the club goes by the name of Darren Schneek, who has persevered heroically through the multiple calamities which have burdened the infant organization. While maintaining positions of both coach and player, he has successfully retained both sanity and that magnetic charm for which he is so well known.

So far this season the club has experienced both victory (Middlebury, Norwich) and defeat (Holy Cross, North Country) and has several games yet to play.

Individuals who have displayed outstanding abilities this season are numerous. Among those to be cited are attackmen Dave "Rave" Brady, Sandy Wolf, Jeff Sperber, Larry Scefonis and the hideous Fletch. At midfield are the boys from the Big Yellow, Jed, Jim Donavan and Massapequa's Francis Smith. Augmenting this firm offensive weapon are Sundance Perry and his counterpart Sunshine Morgan, Crash Flanagan, Oneonta Mates, and freshmen stars, scoring Rich Cashette and Quinten Keefe.

Finalizing and supporting the hull is the bulwark of the team, the defense. The brotherhood is headed by goalies spaced but quick Poulos Freshmen Bill Hollis, the almighty chief, Gentle Ben Macek, Cheap Shot Huling, Big John, Bob Nolan and Ed Hynes. Remember Fritz and Mike.

The performances of these heroic personages both on and off the field will live in the memory of the many who have seen them perform and persist in both success and failure. On May 2nd you may join the ranks of those who have experienced the both unusual and enlightening events that have taken place on the North Campus Field before and shall take place at 2 p.m. on that day.

This season's extensive schedule included such notable opponents as Holy Cross, Middlebury, Norwich and Dartmouth. This challenging schedule serves as a firm basis for the attainment in future seasons of a notoriety previously unseen in the St. Michael's Club Sports program.
